DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 26-28 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shin (US 5,825,449) in view of Ikeda et al. ("Ikeda"; US 5,428,250, provided in Paper No.9).

Shin discloses a semiconductor device (Figs. 1a-1f; also see col. 1, lines 34-67), comprising: a substrate (1; glass); a thin film transistor comprising a gate electrode (2), a first insulating layer over the gate electrode, a channel forming region in an amorphous semiconductor layer (4), and doped source and drain regions (5); a second interlayer insulating layer (9; nitride, inorganic); a pixel electrode (6); a storage capacitor wiring ("20" and/or "2D"); and, an input terminal portion including a first layer (2A or 2B) comprising the same material as that of the gate electrode (2) and a second layer (6A) comprising the same material as that of the pixel electrode in contact with the first layer through a contact hole formed only in the first insulating layer (26), wherein the gate electrode, the storage capacitor wiring layer and the first layer in the input terminal all have a tapered shape and are formed from a same conductive layer; and the storage capacitor wiring and a portion of the pixel electrode, with a portion of the first insulating layer disposed therebetween, inherently form a storage capacitor.

It is noted that the input terminal in Shin is inherently connected to a wiring, as it is designed to receive the external signal (see col. 1, lines 52-55).

Although Shin does not expressly disclose that the storage wiring can be completely covered by the pixel electrode, one of ordinary skill in the art would readily recognize that the storage wiring can be completely covered by the pixel electrode for enhancing the storage capacitance therebetween, as evidenced in Ikeda (see the capacitor line 6 and the pixel electrode 10 in Figs. 6-12).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the semiconductor device of Shin with the storage wiring being completely covered by the pixel electrode, as taught in Ikeda, so that an LCD device with enhanced storage capacitance would be obtained.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 26-28 and 30 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

3. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
